

Honors Advisor Newsletter 4/7/17

- Fall Honors Advising

Are you going on sabbatical in the fall or is your role changing within the department with regards to Honors advising? Please let the Honors office know if you will not be continuing to advise Honors students in fall 2017, honors@uconn.edu.

For more information contact Kate Korner at kate.korner@uconn.edu.

- 2017 John and Valerie Rowe Scholars Visiting Lecture

Wednesday, April 19, 2017

5:00pm – 6:15pm

Student Union Theater

The John and Valerie Rowe Scholars Visiting Lecture Series is designed to bring distinguished health professionals, scholars, and researchers to the Storrs campus annually to speak about critical topics in health care. This year's lecturer is Eric Feigl-Ding, PhD, Harvard School of Public Health and ToxinAlert.org, whose lecture is entitled "Pursuing Diverse Health Careers to Change the World: Why Dropping out of Medical School was the Best Decision of My Life". For more information see <http://honors.uconn.edu/the-john-and-valerie-rowe-lecture/>. Attached is a flyer for posting and sharing!

For more information contact Jess Hoffmann at jessamy.hoffmann@uconn.edu.

- Frontiers Poster Exhibition: 4/7-4/8

We hope you will help us celebrate UConn's undergraduates as they present a range of research and creative projects at the 20th Annual Frontiers in Undergraduate Research Poster Exhibition.

Friday, April 7, 3:00 p.m. - 4:30 p.m. Reception to follow from 4:30 - 5:30 p.m. The presentation of the Mentorship Excellence Awards will take place at this time.

Saturday, April 8, 10:30 a.m. - 12:30 p.m.

Frontiers will take place in the Wilbur Cross North and South Reading Rooms as well as in the adjacent Rotunda area.

For more information, contact: Office of Undergraduate Research at our@uconn.edu.

- The Honors Medals Ceremony is April 29, 2017!